

Towards a Second EUDAT Roadmap of common services

As the project's initial common data services all approach delivery, EUDAT is moving ahead to look at the next round of services to be developed. EUDAT will be inviting research community experts to meet with domain and technology experts at workshops in Barcelona in September to determine which follow-up common services best meet the needs of the European research communities in the selected areas: Dynamic Data, Workflow Support, Semantic Annotation, and Data Access and Reuse. EUDAT may then decide to set up working groups to continue the discussions in some of these areas.
